Please Help Protect our Sea Turtles During Nesting Season May 1-October 31!

Sea Turtles are a protected species. Scientists estimate that only 1 in 1,000 to 10,000 babies will survive to adulthood. During nesting season please observe the following rules:

- Beach campfires/bonfires are prohibited in Flagler Beach.
- Do not touch or disturb the Sea Turtle eggs or hatchlings. Please watch that children follow this rule.
- Do not dig into a marked or unmarked nest to save eggs or hatchlings at any time, even during approaching or receding storms.
- Eggs and /or hatchlings may not be kept in homes or personal aquariums.
- Do not shine lights or take flash photos on the beach during nesting season.
- If you dig holes on the beach, please fill them in before you leave.
- Please take plastic bags and latex balloons with you when you leave. Sea turtles mistake these items for food in the water.
- Please take chairs, pails, buckets, umbrellas, and canopies with you when you leave the beach.

Visit the museum to view our Sea Turtle exhibit and to learn more about these large, air-breathing reptiles that inhabit tropical and subtropical seas throughout the world.

And for more information, please visit Volusia/Flagler Turtle Patrol at www.turtlepatrol.com.
To report an injured or dead turtle, call Florida Fish & Wildlife Conservation Commission Law Enforcement at 888-404-3922.
